WINNING IN THE TOUGH DISTRICTS

In 2006, the Democrats retook Congress by picking up 31 new seats.

20 of those freshman Democrats are in Republican-leaning districts that voted for President Bush in 2004.

These freshmen need a nominee who can compete in their tough districts.

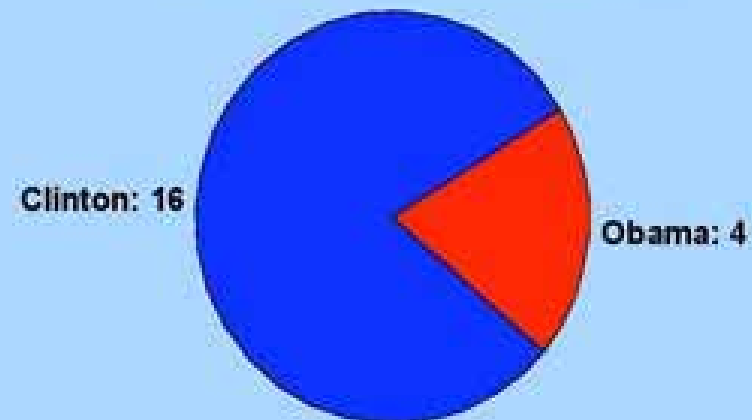

WINNING IN THE TOUGH DISTRICTS

Of those 20 districts, Hillary has now won 16, most by large margins.
