

Hot Dogs, Shadows, and Helium

Seeing the facts live

NIGEL HOLMES

There are times when a presenter can move away from the podium and act out parts of a presentation...sometimes inviting the audience to participate. Live performances keep listeners looking and learning. How can you make a presentation that's partly on and partly off the screen? In this keynote address, you will not just hear about, but also see how:

- Helium can both instruct and amuse
- Shadows can reflect truth with emotion
- To become a competitive eater

From this session, you will gain confidence by allowing your humanity and humor to show, and you will learn that it's not bad to take risks and sometimes fail.
